Each child has a game card. Before the game starts, they need to read each of their words. The teacher may want to go over some of the trickier words in the game. The teacher reads random words off the Calling Card and, if a child has it on their card, they circle it. The winner is the first children to cross off all the words on their cards. To complete the game, they need to read each of their words and the teacher checks it against those that have been called.
